A petition signed by Flora E. Pitcher and others asking that sidewalk be included on both sides of Adams street in the proceedings for the improvement of said street referred to committee of the whole.

Trustee Anderson offered a resolution approving map of Leavitt Tract Sheet No. 1 and accepting the avenues, streets, alleys and public places shown thereon, and the same was adopted.

A motion offering a resolution of intention to abandon portions of Third stret and Eagle Rock was read and street and Eagle Rock was read and ance with the desires of the promotors of the street railway on this street. Action was deferred on account of the fact that Third street is still in the hands of the contractors.)

Mr. L. B. French and Mr. John Powers addressed the board in regard to an electric railroad which they propose to build in the city of Glendale.

The city attorney made an oral report on the convention of sixth class cities held in Los Angeles June 20th to consider the Good Roads movement. The points he reported as agreed upon were the following: The commission has no jurisdiction over any portion of proposed boulevards that will be within incorporated cities; that money voted for a bond issue cannot be used within said corporate limits, and it appeared to be the sense of the convention that a bond election should not be held previous to the general election in November.

The city engineer was instructed to prepare an estimate of cost of improving Orange Grove avenue from Glendale avenue to Adams street under specifications No. 3.

THE GOOD ROADS COMMISSION AND CITIES OF THE SIXTH CLASS.

The meeting called by the trustees of the city of Alhambra to confer with the trustees of other sixth class cities in regard to the Good Roads movement and its bearing on the small municipalities, was held in Los Angeles last Saturday. City Attorney Metcalf and Trustees Watson and Grant were in attendance from Glendale. The Highway commission consists of three members—Messrs. Daggett, Bixby and Marsh.

Mr. Daggett was present at the meeting and made a report outlining the work so far as it has progressed, and stating what it was intended to accomplish. Then followed a roll call of the cities represented. A large map of the county was exhibited, showing the highways proposed. The roads will naturally radiate from Los Angeles as a center. One will cross the county from Monrovia, or near there, to Long Beach. The San Fernando road will be another and probably another extending northward will be through Hollywood and Cahuenga Pass, along the route of the old "Camino del Rey." One will enter the county near Pomona, following the line of the foothills, passing through Pasadena and Glendale and on to the ocean. In Glendale the route favored at present is Sixth street, but the exact route through here is a detail to be worked out later. While the width of the dedicated roads will be not less than sixty and probably in many cases 100 feet, the actual roadway for team work is to be only about 18 feet, it being the opinion of experts that a narrow roadway, constructed for permanent use is preferable to the greater spread of inferior work over a greater surface, and costs much less to keep in repair. That portion of the highways within incorporated cities will be entirely under the control of the municipalities which will receive none of the money raised by the bond issue. A majority of the delegates present favored a resolution offered by Mr. Pridham, of South Pasadena, declaring in favor of postponing the election for bonds until after the November elections so that the people may have a better chance to inform themselves, and also that the complexion of the board of supervisors who will, with the commission, have the control of the three million dollar fund, is made known.

Commissioner Daggett, however, favored the calling of the election at an early date, probably in August.

The highway commissioners are entrusted with full power in all matters conected with the work, subject only to the overseeing of the supervisors who will have to approve the bills.

Steps were taken to form a permanent organization of sixth class cities, and the meeting adjourned.

BUSINESS CHANGES.

C. Daole has sold his interest in the blacksmithing establishment in which he was interested with Mr. Gilhousen, to Mr. Jennings of Tropico. We understand that Mr. Daole will take charge of the horseshoeing department of Mr. Lunds' establishment.

Mr. E. V. Parker has gone into partnership with George B. Mock in the contracting business.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

The coming summer finds the Glendale library particularly well equipped with desirable reading matter, consisting of a new traveling library and a second purchase of books by the library board, in both of which will be found books catering to the tastes of all classes. A fine collection of new books, of which the library management and also the Tuesday Afternoon club may justly feel proud, has just been presented to the library by the club. A list of this will be given later. All new books are now being prepared by the librarian for circulation, and are being placed on the shelves each library day.

Among the books of the traveling library are fifty volumes, especially chosen by the librarian because of their being late and interesting. All classes may be suited, in departments of ethics, religion, science, social science, useful arts, fine arts, poetry, fiction, travel, history and biography. At this vacation season those who are fond of travel will find "Across Asia on a Bicycle" a book full of novelty and adventure. "In the Heart of the Sierras," by James Mason Hutchings, the "father of Yosemite," is most interesting in its anecdotes, descriptions and reminiscences. "London Films," by our own American author, William Dean Howells, so admirably fitted to write of England, gives a series of charming impressions of London.

Of course fiction is more called for than anything else, and good fiction must be presented. Under this head is found "If Youth But Knew," by that popular English literary couple, Agnes and Egerton Castle; "Coniston," by Winston Churchill; "Emma," by Jane Austen; "A Sword of the Old Frontier," by Randall Parish; "The Awakening of Helen Richie," by Margaret De and; "Eugenie Grandet," by Honore de Balzac; "Doctor Claudius," by Francis Marion Crawford; "The Princess Alive," by Richard Harding Davis."

Those who desire a good laugh will find "Editorial Wild Oats," by Mark Twain, permeated with that popular author's mirth-provoking peculiarity.

Particular attention has been bestowed upon the selection of books for young people, as Glendale students are being taught by the efficient teachers in the public schools how and what to read, and the call made by them for plenty of reading matter of the right sort is commendable and gratifying.

SECRETARY.

GROWTH OF BUSINESS IN GLENDALE.

Mr. LeGrand, station agent at Fourth street and the boulevard, reports that both passenger and freight business have doubled there as compared with a year ago.

See those golden brown Oxfords for ladies at Glendale Shoe Store. They are beauties.

THE CORONER HOLDS AN INQUEST IN GLENDALE.

Mrs. Lon D. Gates, a young woman aged about 19 or 20, died last Sunday at Lankershim under circumstances which led to an investigation by Coroner Hartwell at Glendale last Monday afternoon, the body having been brought to the Pulliam undertaking rooms.

Mrs. Gates and her husband, with a child eleven months old, were living on the ranch of Dr. Hagan, near Lankershim. Becoming ill she went to Los Angeles to consult with Dr. Hagan about her condition on Tuesday of last week, accompanied by a lady friend. The lady who accompanied Mrs. Gates testified before the coroner, but could give little positive evidence. Her testimony was to the effect, however, that her friend came away from Dr. Hagan's office with a card evidently in the doctor's handwriting containing the address of Mrs. Smith, on Sunset boulevard. Mrs. Gates then went to Mrs. Smith and on the return home told her friend that she had been given a "black pill"; what else was given her or what treatment she received at the hands of Mrs. Smith is unknown. That night she was taken seriously ill. As son as he could do so, her husband caught Dr. Hagan on the telephone and asked his advice, being assured that the illness was only temporary and not serious. This was on Wednesday. The husband testified that he telephoned Dr. Hagan on Thursday and Friday, and on Saturday, when the case had become desperate, Dr. Hagan came out, to see her. In the meantime, however, the husband had called in Dr. Thompson of Burbank, who seems to have diagnosed the case correctly and to have done everything possible, but was unable to check the high fever which was consuming the patient, who died at 8 a. m. Sunday. The jury, in the absence of more positive testimony, could only render a verdict censuring Dr. Hagan and Mrs. Smith, finding that the deceased had come to her death from blood poisoning, evidently the result of an attempted operation for abortion.

Evangelists Hoare and Adams, conducting the Gospel meetings at the large tent, corner Fourth and Kenwood streets, report a continued interest and full attendance.

They earnestly invite the people of Glendale to these meetings, as they afford a rare opportunity for investigation and study of the sublime themes pertaining to eternal life. During the past week most important subjects have been considered, as "The second coming of Christ, near, even at the doors," "Gospel Meanig of the Age of Inventions," "Origin and Destiny of Satan," etc.

On Saturday evening the subject, "Man, is he mortal or immortal, or does he possess by nature a never-dying soul"; and on Sunday evening the "Reward and Future State of the Wicked" will be presented. The latter study gives a Bible answer to the question whether the wicked are doomed to suffer eternal fire in hell. In every subject Christ and His gospel is exalted.

The meetings will be continued every evening next week.

The new tea and coffee store in the Watson Block, corner Fourth and Glendale avenue, is now ready for business. A full line of teas and coffees, spices and extracts; also china, glassware and house furnishings. Punch bowl and glasses for rent. Tea checks given. Call and see the premiums.

GLENDALE, CAL., JUNE 27, 1908

The California Voice publishes as a fact the following:

"A quantity of whiskey was seized in Newton, Mass. The receipt was found in the possession of the dealer and read thus: 'Ten gallons of kerosene, three pounds of potash, one ounce of strychnine mixed with soft water. If you want gin, add "quantum sufficia" of oil of juniper.'"

We refuse to swallow it.

The San Fernando Press is agitating the question of incorporating that town. We can assure our neighbor up the valley that if it has any ambition to grow and become a place which will become attractive to the home seeker, incorporation is absolutely essential to the accomplishment of that result. Glendale is an object lesson in this respect. The things we have accomplished in the last two years were only made possible by the fact of our having a local government which made up for that lack of co-operation for the general welfare which is natural to all unorganized communities. Incorporate and grow; remain unorganized and stagnate.

Abolish the Parks

Some of the citizens of Los Angeles are disposed to complain because the public parks are being used by suicides as places in which to make their final exit. The unfortunates tread on the grass, tear up the shrubbery and muss up the water in the ponds.

Their actions, of course, are very inconsiderate, but it may be put down to the credit of the successful performer that he never does it the second time. Ths discouraging thing about it is the very evident encouragement of immorality by the public parks. Being used so often by people determined to "shuffle off this mortal coil," it certainly follows that they are responsible for an increase in the number of suicides. This being admitted, the remedy suggests itself to the humanitarian statesman at once, abolish the parks!

Gov. Hughes of New York is another specimen of the public official who is not bound by precedent, but goes right ahead and does things. His triumphant victory over the race track ring in New York, backed up as it was by influential members of his own political party, is one of the best examples of the possibilities for good possessed by a public official, of which we have ever known. A weaker man would long ago have declared the thing now accomplished to be impossible and have been content to do no more than his predecessors had done to bring about a better condition of affairs.

If California should ever be fortunate enough to get a man of the type of Gov. Hughes in the governor's chair, the race-track evil would soon be a thing of the past in this state. Perhaps no other state in the Union has so uniformly put mediocrity in high places as has California. Some day, when the Southern Pacific railroad company ceases to control our political affairs, we may develop statesmen and send them to Washington to represent us, or put one occasionally at the head of the state.

The Hour of the Suffragette

Sunday last was a great day in London. The suffragettes captured the city. The dispatches inform us that half a million people assembled about Hyde Park "while the whole city was in a ferment" for three hours. Ambulances were kept busy dealing with cases of fainting and other minor troubles. Twenty speakers harangued the crowd about the "rights of woman" and the necessity of forcing parliament to enact legislation favorable to their cause.

Probably in no other city in the world could such a demonstration have taken place. Every Sunday in London, Hyde Park and Regents Park are given over to "reformers" of every description. One may hear the king and parliament denounced in the bitterest terms while the omnipresent "Bobby" listens with other spectators to their woeful tale and lets them talk. The rule, however, is that there shall be no processions during the regular hours of church service.

It is very improbable that this rule was enforced last Sunday. No merely man-made law is sufficient to deter a woman from doing what she considers to be her duty to society. We have not heard that King Edward is trembling on his throne, but it looks very much to an observer at a distance as if parliament would have to do something. The women of London, and indeed, of England, are very much in earnest in this matter, and probably the only way to convince them that they are no better law makers or administrators than men, is to let them experiment at least a little. The experiment will doubtless cost a good deal, but real knowledge is worth paying for.

Let us see, was it Byron who wrote:

"Oh woman, in your hours of ease,
Uncertain, coy and hard to please,
We love you well; but yet, but yet,
Preserve us from the suffragette!"

Taft and Sherman

The work of the Republican National Convention in Chicago last week was well done. As far as the naming of the candidate for president was concerned, it was merely a ratification meeting, for the Taft boom had grown to overwhelming proportions. An effort was made by a body of Rooseveltians to stampede the convention by a prolonged outburst of enthusiasm over the mention of the name of the president, but it failed to work; the delegates would not catch fire The admirers of Roosevelt are as numerous as ever and as sincere, but they have had ample time for the serious consideration of the matter and are evidently convinced that he is not the only man possessing the earnest intention and the force necessary to carry out his policies. He has blazed the way, he has given the world an object lesson of inestimable value in showing the possibilities for good which lie in the hands of a president who has a sincere desire to work reform in the many departments of public life. The highest office in the gift of our people has been filled by numerous good men in the past; men whose patriotism is unquestioned by any intelligent citizen. But they have been wedded too closely to hoary precedent and were unable to see their way to the heart of a question through the mass of red tape surrounding it. Theodore Roosevelt does not need to occupy the presidential chair to enable him to continue to be an immense power for good in the life of the nation.

The country is to be congratulated upon the nomination of William Howard Taft. Perhaps never before in our history has a man been nominated for that high office who, by reason of his training from childhood and the rare experience of his mature years in public life, has possessed in such an eminent degree the necessary qualifications for the performance of the duties of the office. We do not mean that he is the greatest man who has ever been nominated for or filled the position; we mean that as far as we can judge by his record and his life up to this time, he seems better qualified for the place than did any candidate whom we can recall, at the time he was nominated. The question of his place in history will be determined by future events; that history will write him down as the successor of Theodore Roosevelt, we do not for an instant doubt. Not only physically, but intellectually and in the record of service performed, any opposition candidate who can be brought out against him will be dwarfed by comparison.

Of the candidate for vice-president, Mr. Sherman, it is only necessary to quote at this time the words of a correspondent of the daily press: "He has been in public life a good many years, and he is as poor a man now as when he entered congress."

Mr. G. B. Hoffman will fit up the old postoffice building as soon as it is vacated as a first-class ice cream parlor and confectionery store. He will be ready to open on July 4th.

Quite a number of Glendale music-lovers on Tuesday night attended the big Ellis concert in the Simpson Auditorium, this being the auspicious close of the Ellis club's season.

Miss Ada Richards has been elected by the Board of Education to teach the coming year, filling the vacancy left by the resignation of Miss Jones, who will teach in Los Angeles.

On the class roll of the largest class ever graduated from the Corona High school, published this week, appears the name of Helen Dell Lamson, who graduated also from the Glendale High last year.

St Mark's Guild will give a lawn party and supper at the residence of Mrs. Penn on Adams street between Fourth and Fifth, on the evening of Saturday, July 11th. Supper from 6 to 8 p.m.

The foundation of the West Glendale school has been laid and the superstructure will be erected in a few days, assuring the completion of the building for the fall term. Mrs. F. G. Taylor will be principal.

In the class of one hundred and thirty-five graduating from the Los Angeles Normal on Thursday afternoon were a number from North Glendale. Quite a number of Glendalians were present at the exercises.

The Children's Day exercises at the Presbyterian church will begin at 10:15 next Sabbath morning, and will occupy the time of the regular preaching service. The topic of the evening sermon will be "The Loss of the Lazy."

Rev. Fackenthal, who has been absent some weeks on business connected with the Santa Margarita ranch in San Luis Obispo county, is in Glendale again for a short time only. He preached at St. Mark's last Sunday.

The closing meeting of the year for Chapter L, P. E. O., was held on Monday in the home of Mrs. R. D. Goss, Fifth street. Closing business was followed by a pleasant social hour, during which came refreshments and good-byes.

The Rev. W. S. Stone leaves on Monday next for Anderson, Shasta county, Northern California, near which place he expects to rusticate for some time in the hope of being benefitted physically by the air of the mountains.

Garfield Jones has gone to Pacoima to superintend the drying of a large crop of apricots and peaches from the 320-acre orchard of the Orchardale Ranch company. It is probable that a large number of young people from Glendale will go up there in a short time to work in the fruit.

The public is invited to attend a lecture by the city forester of Los Angeles at the Presbyterian church Tuesday next, June 30th, at 8 p.m., on the topic of beautifying our city in the planting of trees. The lecture is given at the request of the Brotherhood of the church and will be open freely to the public.

Now that the graduates are safely and gloriously graduated our overworked enthusiasm and admiration can not yet be pocketed, for if the forecast is true Glendale is to have a full share of sweet June brides. The graduates have our congratulations. We saved our blessing for the brides!

Mr. and Mrs. Branch Jones and Mrs. Stimson, Mrs. Jones' mother, spent Friday with Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Bryant. Mr. Jones was manager of the Western Union Telegraph company in Goldfield, Nev., during the trying three months of the strike when every day presented a very actual, thrilling drama of its own.

To honor the ninth birthday of little Marion Addison, a party of little ones gathered at her home on Belmont street on Wednesday afternoon and passed the hours in merry games. Delicious refreshments, including the inevitable highly-decorated birthday-cake appeared, greatly to the joy of the children, only to disapear with almost marvelous promptitude. A number of pretty gifts added to the happiness of the little hostess.

Mr. D. A. Talbott has sold all the fruit on his home place, both peaches and apricots, at a very good figure. Mr. Talbott is one of the most successful growers of fruit in this vicinity and can always dispose of his crop to good advantage. He has all kinds of mountain fruits for sale at his ranch in Sycamore Canyon. Mr. and Mrs. Talbott propose going to the mountains about the first of August to be away several weeks.

YEAR'S FINALE OBSERVED.

Tuesday marked the close of another year for the Tuesday Afternoon Club and the close of the administration of its gracious president, Mrs. Robert Morris. It also ushered in the reign of the new and enthusiastic president, Mrs. Edgar W. Pack, who, once before, guided the affairs of the club through a most successful year.

The farewell address of the retiring president was full of feeling, and bright with epigrams, closing with the words of the club motto: "In Unity, there is Strength."

Mrs. Edgar Leavitt gave a talk upon "Affairs Since 1906," bringing the year's literary work, which began with early American history, down to the present date.

Mrs. J. C. Danford delighted all with a heart-to-heart talk along the lines of home education for our youths, especially along political lines, in remarks that convinced, leaving argument useless.

Mrs. Lillian Wells gave a short talk on life near the firing line during the late Spanish-American war, presenting an interesting exhibit of relics and pictures, and filling in all explanations with bright anecdotes right from the field. Mrs. Wells and her family resided at the time in Tampa, Florida. Like many loyal American women, she occupied the time in preparing dainties and administering to the needs of the homesick soldier boys.

Upon assuming the chair Mrs. Pack, owing to the lateness of the hour, confined her remarks to a very brief outline of the work for the coming year, and read the list of committees as she had appointed them. Like the true clubwoman, she infused a hearty enthusiasm into committee work, lifting it from its dry humdrum existence to its real plane, ennobling duty resolving into highest pleasure; along the lines especially of civics, forestry, philanthropy, and courtesy, finishing with the promise of splendid literary work and many social events that are to be delightfully out of the ordinary.

Mrs. Morris received a number of beautiful bouquets, and she in turn, presented each of her retiring officers with a handsome pen, tied with club colors. The club meets again on Tuesday, Oct. 13th.

Sheet music at the new tea and coffee store, Watson Block. All the late popular songs.

Rev. W. F. Stone, pastor of the Baptist church, resigns his pastorate next Sabbath. This action was made necessary by reason of ill-health. His many warm friends regret most keenly this separation. Bro. Stone had so wrought with heart, head and hands as to leave to his successor a strong harmonious and well equipped church, whose spiritual handiwork will be felt and admired for many years to come. Bro. Stone was a member, also, of the ministers' union in Glendale, where his brotherly spirit and suave manner won for him the undivided esteem and love of all its members, and it is with the keenest regret that we part with him. He was too large for one denomination by reason of his spirit of fraternity and conception of universal brotherhood. These admirable traits of his character have been so chisseled into our hearts that if we are never privliged to meet on earthly shore to receive additional touches heavens strand will disclose these ineffaced designs as ours, to be combined with his in the celestial and everlasting exhibit.

TENNIS—GLENDALE VS. HOLLYWOOD.

Glendale took possesion of Hollywood last Saturday afternon and evening and came away bringing honors. The following is a partial list of those who visited that city on that day, either to see the tennis game or to participate in the dance that was given by the hospitable Hollywooders to the Glendale team: Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brand, Mr. and Mrs. Menzo Williams, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Rice, Miss Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Stine, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deal, Mr. Vogel, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Campbell, Dr. M. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra F. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Seaman, Mr. and Mrs. Shattuck, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton, Miss McClain, Mr. and Mrs. Keatinge—and there were others.

Probably to the surprise of hosts and visitors, Glendale won in the contest by two points. Each side won two doubles, Glendale winning three out of five singles. One of the most interesting contests was that between Whitaker of Glendale and Hurditch of Hollywood, in which the Glendale man won after a hard fight. Stanton of Glendale stood up well against Hollywood's crack player, Eastman, who easily outclassed all of the other players.

It was down on the bills that Hollywood should entertain the Glendale team at a "stag" supper at the Cahuenga Pass hotel, but through a misunderstanding, only Mess, Blue and Keatinge were on hand to represent the Glendalians. It is reported that they did their full duty. The visitors were entertained by a dance at the club rooms during the evening, which was a very enjoyable affair. Following is a list of the Glendale players participating: Mess, Howe, Stanton, Whitaker, Kirby, Blue, Keatinge, Balthis and McLafferty.

We are glad to call attention to the Summer Coaching School being carried on by the Y. M. C. A. in Los Angeles. This is a day and evening school. As the title implies, its principal purpose is to prepare students for entrances to colleges, the instruction being individual and therefore calculated to do the best work in the shortest possible time. But aside from this there are classes for students who wish instruction on special subjects in elementary or higher branches. The term begins June 29. The evening classes will be conducted from 7 to 9 p. m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The fall term of the Association institute opens Sept. 28, when classes will begin in which all sorts of practical studies will be taught, including instruction in automobiling, pharmacy, mining, assaying, etc. Address 621½ South Broadway.

A very delightful and quiet affair was the wedding of Miss Nora Pixley of Fifth street and Columbia avenue, Glendale, to Mr. William McArthur of Los Angeles, the evening of June 24 at the home of the bride. The sister of the bride, Miss Olive Pixley, and Mr. C. O. Little of Los Angeles were the attendants. Dr. Ward of the Presbyterian church was the officiating clergyman.

The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and vines and a charming repast was served to the bridal party, in which was the exact number of the muses, including the two mothers of the bride and groom.

The McArthurs expect to be at home to their friends on Workman street, Los Angeles, after a couple of weeks. The plans for the interim have not been made public, but the good wishes of their friends will be with them.

GOOD MOVE BY CALIFORNIA PROMOTION COMMITTEE.

Many Californians who go to New York are at loss regarding their address on arrival in the eastern metropolis, as they do not know what hotel will be their home while visiting there. It often causes delay in mail delivery and in a number of cases letters have never reached their destination because of wrong address. So much complaint has been made of this that the California Promotion Committee has decided to solve the difficulty by establishing at its Eastern Bureau in New York City a "California Mail Box" where all mail may be sent. If Californians visiting New York City will have their mail addressed in care of the California Promotion Committee, 9 East Twenty-third street, New York City, it will be cared for until called for, or will be forwarded to any address to which it may be ordered.

As the Eastern Bureau of the committee is now the rendezvous of all Californians this new mail box will be quite a convenience for visitors to New York City, and there need be no uneasiness in future about the mail reaching its destination promptly. The "California Mail Box" is now in operation and all who leave California for the East may take advantage of it.

OUR ANNUAL MASSACRE.

(From the Congregationalist, Boston.)

The Fourth of July is anticipated with dread by all but the small boy and lawless hoodlum, but with characteristic American apathy we endure the noise and the disorder year after year. As many as can escape to the woods or take to the water. It does not seem possible to shame Americans by pointing out that we have lost the beauty and significance of the day and that no other civilized nation observes its natal day in such a barbarous fashion. The indulgent American parent seldom resists the appeal for pocket money for fireworks, and the American boy goes on indulging in his passion for noise at a deadly expense. Will public sentiment never be awakened to the price of our foolish celebration of Independence Day? A writer in the June Century does her best to arouse attention in a stirring article on Our Barbarous Fourth. The cost in money is bad enough, for last year the huge sum of twenty million dollars was burned up in fireworks besides the cost of big conflagrations but the most serious consideration is the cost in human life and usefulness. Statistics compiled by a medical journal show that, "during the celebration of five national birthdays, from 1903 to 1907 inclusive, 1,153 persons were killed and 22,520 were injured! Of the injured, eighty suffered total, and 389 partial, blindness; 380 persons lost arms, legs or hands, and 1,670 lost one or more fingers. But these figures, startling as they are, convey only a faint idea of the suffering, both physical and mental, which went to swell the total cost of these five holidays."

"A FIFTH TUESDAY" AFTERNOON

Mrs. E. D. Goode and Mrs. G. E. Williams will on Tuesday next entertain at the home of the former, corner Fourth and Cedar streets, during the hours from 2 until 5, under the auspices of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, thus observing, as has become the custom, the "Fifth Tuesday" for the benefit of the library. For this reason a tiny bank will be in evidence for a silver collection, presided over by Mrs. James H. Wells, who will explain the purpose and use of all literary money collected by the club. Fruitade and wafers will be served. All friends and patrons of the club or the library are invited. Come and bring your friends. A pleasant time is promised.

THE WEATHER.

A valued subscriber in Detroit wants us to say something about the weather. Now that is just what we can do. We know more about the weather than about any other subject on earth—after it happens. And it has been happening for a long time. We can remember something about the weather away back in the last century and are credibly informed that there was some before we dawned upon the mundane sphere. In fact, we have reason to suppos that it is quite an old and long established institution. In the beginning men and women, particularly women, had to have something to talk about—therefore the weather. Imagine the deplorable condition of humanity if, when the theremometer is having a hard time to keep the mercury from crawling out on the roof, you couldn't find surcease from your sorrow by slapping your friend on the back and informing him that "its hot!" Why, if it wasn't for the weather there wouldn't be any ice man, and you couldn't go around singing:

"Oh, the ice man is a nice man
When he serves the crystal ice,
But he is an unnice iceman
When he charges for it twice!"

And the coal man would miss the weather seriously; uron second thought we are of the opinion that the weather is useful for other than conversational purposes. Once a man said something original about the weather. And the next day it snowed.

Everybody knows that the moon is responsible for the weather; when the moon gets full look out for trouble. When the moon has a lop-sided I don't-care expression as it hangs in the western sky just in the beginning of one of its useful spells, you may know that there is going to be rain—or that there isn't, we have forgotten which. People who really know something about the influence of the moon upon the weather are called moonatics, to distinguish them from the people who know so much else that other people don't, that they are kept in solitary confinement.

We never believed in the idea that good results could be obtained by planting things in the moon, still there may be something in it; these new and progressive ideas should not be treated lightly until you have tried them. If you will slip over toward the east some evening just as the moon comes up out of the earth where you can stand on your toes and reach it, to drop some seed in, please do so and report to us at once. The weather in Los Angeles and some other world centers is managed by a bureau. The idea that it is kept in a bureau is a mistake; there are other things about it that are mistakes—among them might be mentioned the "Forecasts," which are sprung upon an inoffensive people once in twenty-four hours. Once upon a time the forecast said it would rain—and it did!

But, California weather! Ah, that is a theme for the poet. Our poet is off on a vacation just at present; he is somewhat off on other things also, but let that pass. It is a subject not to be treated with levity, so we turn it over to the agricultural editor, who keeps notes in a book, plants potatoes in the dark of the moon, etc., but he is strong on facts.

We have reached the latter days of June without one unpleasantly warm day since last summer. Indeed, there has been a tendency to complain of an "unusually cold spring and early summer," and such has been the case. In the last week of May there was a slight touch of frost on the low-lying valley lands, but not sufficient to do any injury. The fogs usually prevalent at this season still continue to drift in from the ocean at night and overcast the sun for an hour or two in the early morning. Vegetation is as a consequence more backward than usual and fruit is not ripening quite as early, but promises a good crop.

This week the weather has become warmer, particularly in the early part of the day before the ocean breeze begins to move. It is now the season of the year when our really warm weather comes on. The thermometer is liable to register as high as 90 degrees at any time for two or three days in succession, but it is to be borne in mind that this is a dry heat and that it does not prevail during the night. Tomatoes, green corn, squashes, cucumbers, etc., are coming into market slowly, with peaches, apricots and all kinds of berries, but not yet in quantities for sufficient home consumption, except as to berries.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN JUNE 28.

(For the News.)

The approaching Solar eclipse affords a seasonable oportunity for a brief consideration of these interesting phenomena. And in order to obtain a clear conception of what occurs in an eclipse, let us form an imaginary picture of the sun, the earth and the moon in their several positions in the Solar System. The earth travels round the sun at an average distance from that luminary of ninety-three million miles, in a slightly elliptical orbit which takes us about three million miles nearer to the central orb in December than in June. The moon circles round the earth at an average distance of 240,000 miles from the latter, also in an elliptical orbit, which, of course, brings her nearer to us at some times than at others. And as the path of the earth and that of the moon are very nearly in the same plane, it follows that when the moon passes that part of its orbit situated between the earth and the sun, it must frequently interpose its dark body between us and our source of light. This can only occur at new moon, and produces an eclipse of the sun. Similarly, when the moon passes that part of its orbit lying directly away from the sun, on the other side of the earth, it must frequently pass into, and through the shadow of the latter. This shadow is a vast cone of darkness streaming out behind the earth, about 857,000 miles. And as the moon is little more than one-fourth that distance from the earth, it has, in an eclipse, sometimes to pass through considerable space in obscuration. This can only occur at full moon, and produces a lunar eclipse.

If the sun, the earth and the moon were in exactly the same plane, and the two latter moved in exactly circular orbits, there would be a total eclipse of both the sun and moon every month at regular intervals. But the inclination of the orbit of the moon to that of the earth causes the moon most frequently to pass either above or below the sun, and above or below the earth's shadow on their respective sides of its orbit. It usually happens that only a portion of the surface of the sun is obscured in a Solar eclipse this is termed a partial eclipse. If, however, the moon crosses the sun in such a manner that its center passes over, or very near to, the center of the sun, then the eclipse assumes one or other of two very remarkable forms. In one case the entire surface of the sun is obscured, making a total eclipse. This phenomenon is rare, and the apparent diameter of the moon being only slightly larger than that of the sun, the duration of totality is very short; the movement of the moon will, in a few minutes, enable a margin of the sun to reappear. In the other case, however, even though the center of the moon passes exactly over the center of the sun, the eclipse will not be total, as a beautiful ring of the sun's disc will be visible around the dark edge of the moon. The effect may be roughly illustrated by placing a half dollar squarely in the center of a twenty-dollar gold piece. This is termed an annular eclipse, from the Latin word "annulus"—a ring. These varieties of eclipse result from the variations in distance and eccentricity of orbits before referred to, which constantly fluctuate within certain limits, and make the apparent size of the moon, sometimes a little smaller and sometimes a little larger than that of the sun.

The Solar eclipse, which will occur next Sunday morning, is one of the last mentioned variety, an annular eclipse. But the most interesting phase of it will only be visible, in this country, in a circumscribed area, in the peninsula of Florida, near the city of Tampa. And being of somewhat rare occurrence, doubtless many observers will assemble there to witness it. The eclipse will, however, be visible as a partial eclipse all over the United States. And as the sun will be everywhere high in the sky at the time, and very favorably situated for the purpose, a good opportunity will be afforded everyone to make an interesting astronomical observation, requiring no special ability, and no other apparatus than a piece of smoked or colored glass.

In Los Angeles county the eclipse will commence at 6:17 a. m. and end at 8:17 a. m., and at its greatest extent three-fifths (more than half) of the sun's disc will be obscured. This is a greater extent of obscuration than can be seen anywhere on this coast, except at San Diego, where it will be the same. At San Francisco only two-fifths will be obscured, and at Victoria, B. C., only one-tenth.

Let us hope the sky will be clear, for if it is cloudy we shall only be aware of the eclipse by the semi-twilight which will prevail.

In contemplation of this sublime manifestation of the mighty forces of nature, let us remember the marvel of human achievement by which predictions of such precision are accomplished. No longer are such phenomena regarded as of sinister omen to the human race, as in the olden time.

The movements of the heavenly bodies go on silently, continually and unobtrusively. Indeed this is a characteristic of all the grand operations of nature. Sometimes, however, as in the case of an eclipse of the sun, these operations are so conspicuous that they inevitably attract our attention. And in these enlightened times we recognize in the eclipse the operation of the eternal law of the Mighty Ruler of the universe. Well might the poet sing of the starry orbs around us—

"In reason's ear they all rejoice
And utter forth a glorious voice;
For ever singing, as they shine,
The hand that made us is divine."

RUNAWAYS.

Only two heard of this week, but one of them counts for several. Last Tuesday near noon as the Glendale bus was coming up from the depot and had just turned into Glendale avenue at Fourth street, a tug came loose or broke, which probably led to the dropping of the neckyoke, for the tongue fell down, and when the horses began to run it was soon snapped off. Just above the livery stable the driver and the one passenger jumped out, and the horses dashed up the street, turning the corner sharply to the right at Third street. Here the team and the vehicle parted company, the latter turning turtle at the northeast corner of the two streets, while the horses continued around the block, circled back to the rear of the livery stable and were captured. The driver, Harry Bidwell, received a severe cut in the knee and was otherwise bruised. The one passenger, a commercial traveler, escaped without injury. It was very fortunate that the accident occurred at a time of day when there are but few passengers. Team and driver were laid up for repairs until Thursday, when trips were resumed.

One of Shaver Bros. delivery teams ran away last Monday afternoon while delivering goods in the Riverdale tract. They made a lively dash along the San Fernando road and were captured after considerable difficulty by Fred Volkert. No damage resulted, although the wagon was loaded with an assortment of goods, a case of blackberries on the driver's seat not being upset.

BOARD OF TRADE BANQUET AT HOLLYWOOD.

It was the privilege of the writer to attend the annual banquet of the Board of Trade at Hollywood Thursday evening of last week. This yearly banquet has become quite an important event in our flourishing sister city and is one of the many means adopted by the enterprising members of the organization to advertise their many attractions and to get in closer touch with their own people and their neighbors. There were about 300 members and guests present in the dining room of the Hotel Hollywood at 8:30, when the banqueting begun. A fine orchestra furnished excellent music throughout the evening, and in addition to this a male quartette sang several songs, which won encores, and Mrs. Johnston Bishop sang with fine feeling in her splendid style, "California," and for an encore gave her native state song, "Ohio." The very efficient president of the Board of Trade, Mr. Edward Winterer, acted as toastmaster, and gave an interesting account of the work accomplished by the Board of Trade for Hollywood. Mr. G. H. Stewart, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, spoke in a very happy vein of the growth of the two cities and of the great future of Southern California. Mayor Dunlap of Hollywood and several other speakers spoke briefly, and it was 11 o'clock when the pleasant event was at an end.

Hollywood claims the distinction of having the largest Board of Trade in proportion to the population of any city in the world, the organization having a membership of 220. It is a body that does things, and its existence explains to some extent the wonderful growth and prosperity of that enterprising and beautiful city.

Mrs. Dufur was the recipient of many handsome presents. About thirty were present.

The Masons of this place held a meeting Tuesday for the purpose of organizing a lodge here. All present were in favor of having a lodge here, and committees were appointed to do the preliminary work. G. H. Wood will commence in the near future the erection of a brick block, adjoining that of A. O. Kendall, on Second street, the hall upstairs to be used as a Masonic hall.

She graduated from the Los Angeles Normal Thursday, and will teach the coming term at Woodville, near her home. The affair was a small dinner, where covers were laid for eight. The table was extremely attractive in its ornamentation of red carnations and plumosus and places were marked with dainty pen and ink scenes.

HUNTINGTON ABSOLUTE MASTER OF TROLLEY LINES.

The Herald is able to make the exclusive announcement that Henry E. Huntington returned from New York again the absolute master of all the city and suburban electric railways except the Los Angeles Pacific. The great Pacific Electric and Interurban systems are again within the entire dictation of this great trolley wizard.

The story of the unhorsing of the wily Harriman from his seat of power comes to us from one close to the councils of the Corner Room in the Huntington building.

The six or eight months spent in New York by H. E. H. were devoted to executing a coup of much adroitness, the distinguishing features of which were the acquirement of large blocks of Union Pacific preferred When the Union Pacific annual election came along Mr. Harriman found himself facing a shortage in the voting wherewithal. Opportunely Mr. H. E. H. was able to relieve his embarrassment.

Result: Mr. Huntington came home wreathed in smiles. Orders a million dollar home built near Highland Park (not so far away). Orders new lines of railway built, at a time when money is scarce. Everything in the Corner Room is humming. Henry E. is scattering sunshine everywhere. He's going to give Southern California another big boost. Watch him!—(Highland Park Herald.)
